

Project SEARCH Information Night

Project SEARCH interns are young people with significant intellectual disabilities who are seeking competitive employment after graduation. To help them reach that goal and make successful transitions to productive adult life, Project SEARCH offers a nine-month program that provides real-life work experience combined with training in employability and independent-living skills.

Join us to learn more about Project SEARCH at Northwestern Medicine Woodstock Hospital. We will share an overview of the program, review eligibility requirements and provide details on the application and selection process.
